SUE LEWIN AND ANDREW KING

Dream, Draw, Design, Make: From STEM TO STEAM in the early years education

From Leonardo de Vinci to Steve Jobs, problem solving scientists have also been artists. This hands-on interactive workshop explores the integration of engineering and the arts in the Early Years' curriculum. Engineer and writer Andrew King and musician and early years' educator Sue Lewin combine their knowledge and experiences in their chosen fields to lead participants through practical activities, philosophies, songs and creative thinking for young children.

DR LISA SONTER

Practicalities of meaningful environments

What messages do our learning environments convey? How can engaging play spaces be established? Does the environment suggest that this is a place for children to play? Do children have a voice? Is the environment flexible and invites participation by every child?

This workshop aims to examine these questions and others when designing or reviewing a learning environment which affords opportunities for children to have their voices heard and respected. Suggestions for promoting their sustained thinking and engagement alongside wonder, inquiry and investigation will be shared.
